2011 MONSTERS OF DESIGN AWARDS
CALL FOR ENTRIES

Good design is good design.

The Young Architects Forum of Kansas City invites all young designers to submit their work for the 2011 Monsters of Design Competition. Projects of all types and scales (architecture, interiors, products, furniture, lighting, graphics and anything else) are welcome.

Monsters of Design is an annual design awards competition for young architects and/ or designers from or near the Kansas City metro area. MoD exists to recognize the young designers whose work may not be recognized by other awards competitions. All types of design are considered equal in this competition. Ok, so maybe you didn't design a whole building. Did you design a killer table for the conference room? Submit that. Did your client reject your brilliant idea? Submit it. Did you design a great album cover for your indie rock band? Submit it! Past winners have included a series of handbags, a trailer, and unfinished skin studies of a large building. So we really mean it when we say that good design is good design, regardless of scale, budget, or genre.

Only the first 100 entries will be considered. Don't delay register TODAY!

Eligibility:

- Entrants can be students or professionals under age 40 as of the end of 2011.
- Entrants must reside and work within 250 miles of Kansas City.
- Entrants may submit work done independently, as a student, employee, or educator.
- Group projects may be submitted, but only if every member of the group meets all of the eligibility requirements.
- The Monsters of Design awards are meant to recognize designers, not companies. Entries that are submitted under company names will NOT be considered. Companies ARE permitted to cover the entry fees of individuals.
- All digital and physical submissions, including renderings, display boards and slideshows, must be the work of the designer(s) responsible for the project submitted. If a designer was responsible for only certain parts of a larger project, only the portions designed by the qualified entrant may be submitted.
